

THE KIRK KONNECTION

Editor: Carolyn Marnon

March 2023

Near the conclusion of this past Sunday's sermon, I said, "During this season of Lent, I invite us all to listen.....to God. Do your best to learn what God is asking of you today, and repeat the process every day. If you do that, you'll develop the habit of walking with God so much that there's no way you'll ever be walking away from God. Many of you correctly refer to this activity as 'prayer.'"

Suggesting that we engage in the above practice is straightforward enough, but it is far less clear to many of us how we ought to do this.

How do we pray? Is there a right or wrong way? Is there a method that is better or more helpful than others?

The answer is yes. And also no.

Our current Bible study at church is guided by Ruth Haley Barton's book Sacred Rhythms, which teaches seven different spiritual disciplines that Christians – lifelong followers of Christ and those brand new to the faith – have for hundreds of years found to be beneficial on the road to a deeper relationship with God. During our introductory meeting yesterday, this question of how to pray was helpfully raised.

The truth is that there are infinite numbers for how to pray, because prayer is communion with God. "Communion," so defined by The Oxford English Dictionary, refers to "the sharing or exchanging of intimate thoughts and feelings, especially when the exchange is on a mental or spiritual level." This exchange doesn't have to include spoken words. In fact, it doesn't even need to be comprised of words at all, spoken or unspoken. However, the "best" form of communion with God for one person might be different than the most helpful form for someone else. There is probably a specific method for all of us that is more "right" – more effective at bringing us into communication with God – for each of us individually than all others. So there is no "wrong way" to pray, per se, but there is probably a vehicle of engaging in communion with God that is better for you than all others.

During this liturgical season of Lent, the world often engages in practices designed to, on some level, bring them into closer relationship with God. We're all familiar with the idea of giving something up or, in more recent years, taking something extra on during this season.

While these practices have good intentions, there is an absence of God in these efforts. Does giving up fried food for 40 days really help you grow in relationship with God? Probably not. Spiritual disciplines, on the other hand, have far better potential to achieve the desired goal to achieve a deeper relationship with the Lord. All of this is “prayer,” even though it may not resemble the conventional idea of what “prayer” is.

The goal of our study of Sacred Rhythms is to try out a variety of spiritual disciplines on an exploratory journey that leads us to a better understanding of what works best for each of us individually. While it might be true that each of us has one particular vehicle of communion with God that is ideal, it should be noted that this can change as our lives and circumstances change, perhaps even by the day. That is another crucial reason to explore as many different spiritual disciplines and methods of praying as possible, so that all of those practices are available to us as we seek to get nearer to God, to have access to our Lord, to engage in deep, intimate communication and relationship that we can feel deep down in our bones and in our soul. The more techniques at our disposal – the more approaches that we have to be in touch with God – the likelier it is that our relationship with the Lord will grow progressively more meaningful. In short: we get what we give. Your satisfaction with your spiritual life will probably be commensurate with the effort you put into developing it.

There should be no stress as we engage in this: there are no grades, no tests, no deadlines. If there is one “rule,” however, I would return to my initial comment about “repeating the process every day,” because if we never stop our communication with God we’ll never be moving “away” from God. The goal is to get closer to our Creator – to our Savior – and even if our steps are sometimes small that’s exactly what we’ll be doing as long as we never stop seeking God. I invite all of you to begin this journey (or continue if you’re already on it), relishing both the large jumps and the tiny steps as you get closer to God. ☺

January was beneficial for the Kirk though gains of $4,000 impacted the bottom line. That gain offset a withdrawal that was made early in the month from Mutual Funds. Even without the gain January's bottom line would have been slightly better than budget. High winter gas bills continue and 2 copier lease payments occurred as well. Incoming cash flows were within $100 of budgeted amounts.

The mission of the Kirk of Our Savior is to glorify God, nurture new and existing relationships, and bear witness to our faith and divine calling through worship, service, stewardship and prayer.

It is the vision of this church to become a living example of God's love, called to show Christ to those within the church community by offering ourselves in service to those in need and inviting all to share in this vision.

If you want to participate and would like a book - and have not yet informed Pastor Mike - please do so as soon as possible!

LEARN THROUGH PLAY PRESCHOOL

"Our toddler class had a great time celebrating Valentine's Day. They had a small party and exchanged treats with each other. Our GSRP students finished up our study on clothing; they had a great time exploring the topic but also learning about different styles of dress and methods of making clothes. They finished the unit by giving a fashion show where they displayed vests that they created and designed. We are getting stir crazy, though, from the changing temperatures and we long for warmer weather!

Updates on the Donations from Kirk of our Savior

Stevenson Middle School 2022-23

Kirk of Our Savior has partnered with Wayne Westland's Stevenson Middle School to help bring additional programs to the students. The staff at Stevenson have provided the Kirk with details of how the donation was utilized. Items bold and italicized come from the proposal Principal Kimberly Doman provided to the Kirk Session last fall.

"We have a PBIS (Positive Behavior Intervention System) framework that we utilize in our building to help students make positive choices. We utilize a PBIS rewards app so students can cash in the points that they earn for good choices made during the day for amazing prizes."

Stevenson reported recently that the store selections include items available for 10 PBIS points (blow pops, sour punch twists, lanyards, stickers, and jolly ranchers) up to 100 PBIS points for a "lazy lounger," a bendable clip that allows one to attach a phone for hands-free viewing.) Other items include face masks, pencils, highlighters, gel pens, t-shirts, mini posters, colored pencils, markers, motivational bracelets and gift cards.

"Each month we have a reward party for students that have met that month's criteria, which covers our pillars for Stevenson Middle School citizenship: Respect, Accountability, Pride, and Safety."

RAPS PARTIES

We had 2 parties this year so far

576 students met the qualifications for our last party. That's 87% of our student population. Amazing!

"Stevenson Middle School was selected as one of 13 middle schools in the entire state of Michigan that is piloting the new e-sports program. E-sports is now recognized at the high school level as a sport and they are working to expand and bring this down to middle schools as well. Since this is new to us this year, we do not have any equipment other than the chromebooks for the students to play on."

E-SPORTS

In 2022-2023, Stevenson Middle School Esports Club has fulfilled the competitive gaming dreams of more than 40 Middle School students.

Your support granted us:

- 6 low latency HDTVs
- 10 ultra-low latency monitors
- 8 Nintendo Switch OLEDs
- 8 Xbox Series S's
- 16 additional controllers
- Lighting design for the esports lab
- Funds for games and downloadable content

Esports Accomplishments

3rd Place in Rocket League Tournament

Won our first scrimmage in Super Smash Brothers Ultimate

8th grade students participated in national Middle School Esports League

“One of our School Improvement Goals is to improve student literacy by having students reading more often. We would like to have rewards for students who are reading on their own. Any student that is found reading on their own will get a raffle ticket to enter a drawing for a prize.”

Hailey Ditto (December) and Alan Lemus (January) recently won Amazon gift cards in the Student Literacy Initiative raffle for students who have chosen to read during recess.

“After school tutoring that is run by our NJHS kids and teacher supervisors. It would be helpful for us to be able to provide healthy snacks for our students that are staying after school.”

We offer tutoring twice a week after school for an hour

Thanks to your donation, we have been able to provide snacks to all of our students every time they work towards improving their scores.

“The 8th graders are offered a trip out of state each year. It is $769 for each student to attend the trip to Gettysburg and Washington DC. The trip is pricey for our families and we are requesting that we get sponsorship to pay for 5 students. We will request that each family submit an application to our department heads for approval (we would welcome board membership to be a part of the selection committee).”

8th Grade Trip to WASHINGTON DC

We were able to offer a scholarship to 5 deserving students for their school trip to Washington DC in June! The scholarship applications that were submitted can be found by clicking HERE.

THANK YOU!

“Each Friday the administrators meet with a different group of students to get to know each other better and discuss how school is going for them. At the end of each meeting, we ask the students to complete a “Favorite Teacher Award”. We would love to attach gift cards to each for the staff that are the students’ favorite teachers each week.

“Once a month we like to celebrate our staff and have unstructured time to engage in conversation and de-stress. I would like to request a catered meal for the staff once a month to allow that time for them to fellowship with each other and provide support to each other.

“Each month we would like to encourage teachers to meet with students outside of their contractual time for tutoring support, sharing their interests, running clubs, or showing their support for the kids by attending a school sponsored event. I’d like to have a raffle system each month where teachers would be able to put a raffle ticket for each day that they did something for the kids outside of their contractual hours and I’d pick one winner per month to win a VISA gift card.

“Each March we have a staff competition called March Madness where teachers compete on a team with certain tasks that earn them points for their team. Each week teams are matched in brackets and knock out a losing team until we have one winner. We have a trophy that we have engraved with the winners and have done this for the past 3 years. I would like to offer more prizes for the winning team and also the teams that are participating.

“I would like to purchase my full staff a new retail option that has a $50 limit. This is to ensure that all of our staff members, new and returning, have something that they can wear at school during our spirit days (weekly on Fridays).

“I would like to give all volunteers or substitutes that come to our building a thank you gift bag with goodies inside that include candy, a beverage, a thank you card, and a $10 starbucks gift card. “

THANK YOU FOR YOUR
